Nicole MENKE

IZI EXPERIENCE HOME Program Manager

iZiExperience Home is a unique living lab in the city of The Hague (the Netherlands) that aims to help the local population stay at home as long as they want. The approach “smart and warm” is driven by the needs of the elderly people themselves.

iZiExperience Home is an apartment where older people can try new technologies that will help them remain at home. The technologies can also be borrowed to be tested by the users at their own place. The iZi ambassadors, local elderly people who volunteer in the Home, are in charge of presenting the technologies to their pairs.
